An Escape from tiberia. I have obtained from M. M Mckrievisch is about thirty-three years old. He is the see of a country gentleman, and highly educated. In 1873 he i load a secrepolitical stolety, and for six years was actively engaged in what he calls the revelu locally prop aganda in Southern Russis. A though nonetantly tracked by the emissies of the Tri d Se ion, it was not unit 1879 that he fell inco their hands. In January of that year he was as Kieff, e under tok a sicret printing the which one day, during his absects, was extend by the police. Three of M knevi ch's com-panious-B endroer. All four were tried by a un-martial. Brandteer, Os insky and the u kunwa were bang d. and Makri vi on was sentenced to fourteen years' paul's remade in Siberia. In June following be and some orner s are operiors were sent to the dea ral fail of of z nek, whence early in July they set out on their long j urney to Oast Kara, where they had to undergo their saltecore. To y traveled part of the way by way of N j ii Novgorod, by railway, steamboar and on ners back. The remainder of the juricy, 1,450 miles, bad tobe done cu tool auf in crates. They maiched at the rate of a not fifteen miles a day, the sights being pest die to colled crapes - small houses twarming with versia and uespeckably filthy-where all classes of prisoners, of both sixes, were com-pelled to sleep back and together on bare boards. Bitwien Krasnoyank and I kouik M. M.krievi ch aud two of hiso mpanises-I bi zkey and O.feff-changed names and dresses will three ordinary opnists, who wore under senteres of perpetual exile. This, M. To avoid recapture, waich, had he gone wis . would have been almost certain, he made off toward the Chinese frentier, aud after a walk Russis, which he reached after a juracy of tour thousand miles, performed mostly on f.o. He underwent terribbe bardsbip, and met with many adventures. Without the fr quest sie and generous hospitali y of the country peo; la. who are noted for their kindness to faci ive cooviers, he could not possibly have made good tis escape, and lest he should expose tuose who helped him to the vengeaces of the Russian government, he does not desire to make public ly known the exact direction which he took.
